

Studio Beacons Entrance Criteria

Studio Beacons will offer an opportunity for individuals to learn artistic concepts and techniques in an engaging and fun atmosphere. Applicants should have a vocational or creative exploration goal in their IPP.

Studio Beacons will offer lessons designed to help individuals who are interested in art, grow their knowledge and abilities through projects, field adventures, and interactions with the artistic community. In addition the following criteria must be met:

1. SELF-CARE

Participants must be independent in their self-care skills, and be able to communicate their basic needs. If they are unable to independently tend to their self-care or to communicate their basic needs, but meet all other criteria, they must be accompanied by a consumer-provided personal care attendant if they wish to participate in the Studio Beacons training program. This must be discussed with the Explorer staff during the interest interview.

2. PHYSICAL, MEDICAL &/or MENTAL HEALTH ISSUES

Beacons programs offer assistive technology and adapted tools to support those with intellectual and physical disabilities, but does not offer medical care or medical assistance onsite for those with medical or mental health challenges. Individuals with medical or mental health needs that require the support of a personal care attendant or who may at times require 1:1 support because of medical or other issues may attend if accompanied by a trained and self-provided personal care attendant authorized to tend to the medical and other needs of the consumer. This must be discussed with the Studio Beacons staff during the interest interview.

Please note that our instructors do not administer medications, and Beacons does not have emergency response teams in place. If a consumer wishes to provide his/her/their own trained support, please contact us to discuss.
